

Opium Withdrawal
M.T.B. 700

Dearest,

Do you mind if I write this one in pencil? I've just had about 2 hrs. at Algebra & I'm just too lazy to dig down into my effort to find my pen. I've now juggled in & with radio & coffee I feel fairly fit but only just. A most exhausting day - I've played rugby this afternoon on a very, very hard pitch & it's an 'understatement' to say that I'm stiff, sore, heavy & bed-pinned. There'll be another game on Saturday aft. (D.V.) aft which I shall begin to wonder whether or not the 2nd boxes have had their time or not. Loads of 23 aboard here are asking me whether I think they're too old for football! They're asking me!

Time to phone you today,
honey. Short & sweet huh?
When I got back aboard your packet of 4 was waiting me but nae letter - must be a hold up somewhere which I shall duly investigate.
The skipper looked a panic at the packet - these blokes think of the making a good thing out of it - they seem to hate to see anybody but the Wood Room sitting pretty.

My appointment with the Ensign Commander has

been fixed for Friday 10.15.
Hope I'm luckier this time.
I'm afraid that my back, if in the same condition as today, will prevent me assuming an office-like bearing - pray I'd better rub a little horse-oil in - trouble is there are no horses around here.

- Heard a funny climax (anti?) to our C - visit.
The lads came back aboard last night & reported that in a local pub they'd been shown a local character who looked like, & was, a right bone merchant - he was the Archbishop of
- son! Believe it or not.

About time I crashed.
Loving thoughts keep getting mixed up with algebraic equations with dire results to the equations. 'Love conquers all', etc.

Love
