

Mess K

Harriet

Tuesday.

Darling, such suspense! - Here we all are awaiting & longing for leave to come our way & still we don't know after 4 days of requesting, interviewing & arguing. Tomorrow should decide one way or t'other but godd only can tell whether it'll be yea or nay. I was hoping to be around your way in time to prevent the necessity of a letter - it seems so hard & un sentimental to us these days when every week see the Westward a-cuddling & a-kissing

Before the fire - but if we have to hang on here a couple more days I guess you'd be a-wondering what's cooking.
As I said in 'gram, I can't phone - at least I couldn't yesterday on account of a special job & I can't today on account of the duty again - maybe tomorrow I'll manage it.

Get back O.K. on Sunday honey? Grim business this going away, huh? Lovely week, darling, simply gorgeous.
You're certainly the gal to come home to - when I think of all the years I've got left to experience that good old home-coming feeling I so all gooney. ³ All the boys that saw you - & you'd be surprised how many did - thought you were the tops, & considered I was damned lucky to grab you, you angel you.

Of course, one or two of the wrens saw you & I've had to combat a certain amount of jealousy this week - you know how it is, dating. They think you gals in civvies have the advantage over them, & when one of 'em came over & asked who was that lady she saw me with one night the atmosphere was positively feline. But they couldn't disguise the fact that they thought you were good - oh - &

I mean, Dr! However, after I'd explained that that was no lady -- etc., they got all interested & I'm now firmly established as a married man in love with his wife & no monkey business. They just had to face the facts.

And I really & truly am head over heels over head over heels in love with you sweet & if I can only get up the line this week you'll be only too glad to endeavour to show you just what I mean - if you know what I mean.

Sincerely
Yours

de' faithful

Le

~~W. J. ...~~

Mrs. HANTS

Ministry of Supply
Con. 2F-22.24.

Off. Warmin in Hse.
Horseshoe Rd
S.W.1.