

How Regent.

Thursday night.

10th Jan '46

Dealing, - This is to be very hurried, & if you can read it your own handwriting - the pencil box photo is about 15 mins. + the sea's knocking down bells out of the packet. I thought I'd take a chance on this reaching you by Saturday because the schedule as it now stands makes things awkward. It's thissavory. We star at Plymouth tomorrow - where I hope to get this away - & go on to Penzance in the evening arriving Saturday sometime. Can see the seas?

It's likely that you'll get to Harrogate too late to phone you - you'll have to come up to No. 12 when I can. Chances are that as it's weekend we won't get our Official leave till Monday - although that won't stop me nipping up the line - there's very little that could stop me! So-o-o-o, if no word comes from me by Sat morning you can bet that in the next 24 hours something - probably Sat-~~night~~ afternoon or evening - you'll see - nothing, nobody will be banging on the front door. Of course, if you don't get this note you won't know anything about it & you'll have to let you know we in early stages - you'll wear a beard & take the shock away.

Yes indeed 'things' in human merely towards their appointed end. At Pappy's death - having a final flying out in the year long of his day - & the ship's doing every thing but fly. The Stomach has held out very well, 'til you think' my one & only, that a little less discourse on 'The Stomach & more on the heart would be more appropriate I can only say that I'm sorry, but I weeks on - the abstinence of a ship has rather brought 'The Stomach' to mind more than I meant. But just let me get one foot on land how-ee-er!!!

It's a comin' honey
O' lovey - Dorey kiss
